

Georg von Westphalen Medicine Madness: The Waiting Room Anarchy

The doctor is running behind. You have 14 minutes.

What the F?!

GW Georg v. Westphalen

The Founding Architecture

How to monopolize a medical paradigm in four easy steps (circa 1910).

The Flexner Report

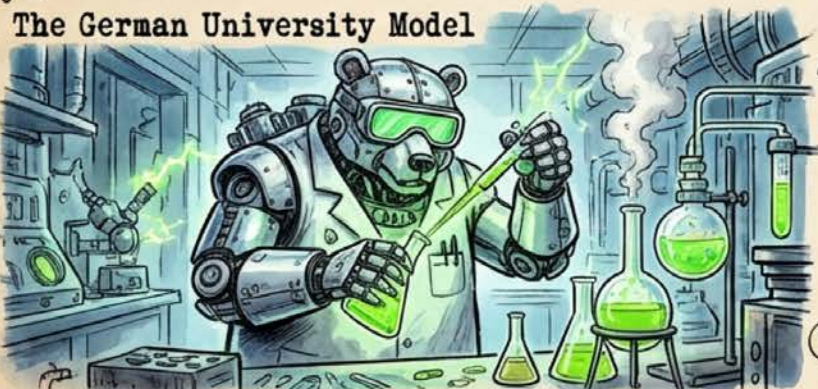

POWER: Eliminate one non-corporate player from the board.
LORS: A 1910 document that systematically replaced diverse healing traditions with petrochemical pipelines.

The Philanthropic Apparatus

POWER: Pay 5 coins to rewrite the rulebook in your favor.
LORS: Rockefeller grants ensuring only the academies teaching the pill-pushing curriculum survive the winter.

The German University Model

POWER: Convert 3 organic resources into 1 synthetic, patentable asset.
LORS: Standardised, rigorously sterile, and perfectly calibrated to prescribe the funder's products.

The Closed School

POWER: Target loses all active nature-based healing buffs.
LORS: No corporate grant, no state license. The botanical traditions fade to black.

The Sickness Subscription Model

The Cured Patient

POWER: Target player discards their hand and stops paying you rent.
LORE: A catastrophic strategic error for any pharmaceutical portfolio. The cured patient does not return.

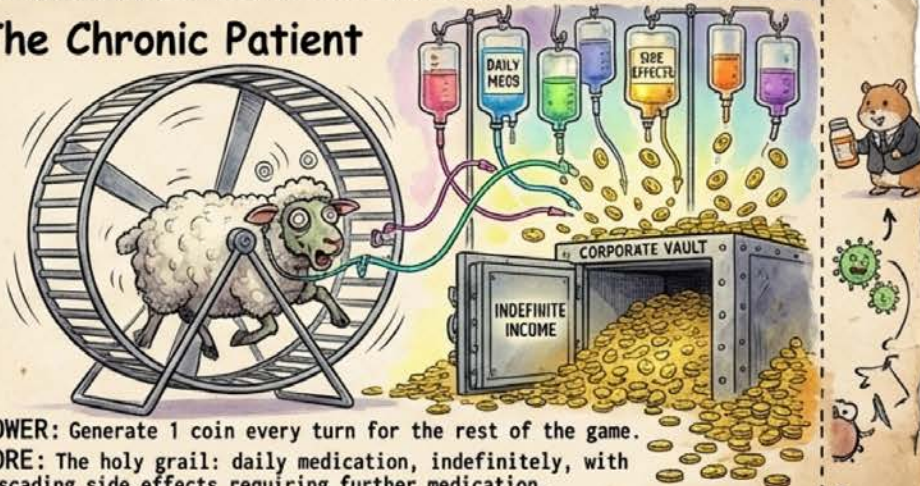

The Diagnostic Expansion

POWER: Move the goalposts. Target player must re-roll healthy stats until they trigger a condition.
LORE: Lowering the threshold of healthy until the entire population requires a daily pill.

A cured patient is a catastrophic loss of recurring revenue.

The Chronic Patient

POWER: Generate 1 coin every turn for the rest of the game.
LORE: The holy grail: daily medication, indefinitely, with cascading side effects requiring further medication.

The Footnote Committee

POWER: Hide 3 cards face-down; opponents cannot read them until they trigger.
LORE: Eleven experts defining the disease, who just happen to be funded by the manufacturer of the cure.

Scandal Sequence I: The Baseline

We tested it on rats. The rats are fine. (The babies are not).

Contergan / Thalidomide

POWER: Play to automatically win a round, but permanently reduce your max health by half.

LORE: Deformed 10,000 children, but taught the industry how to survive a regulatory crisis.

The Irrelevant Species Test

POWER: Nullify an opponent's attack by proving it didn't hurt a cockroach.

LORE: Designing the safety test protocol so it literally cannot find the danger you are looking for.

Frances Oldham Kelsey

POWER: Block any corporate action this turn. (Cannot be countered).

LORE: The one FDA eagle who actually looked at the data and said No to the tidal wave.

The Unreplicated Result

POWER: Declare your own dice roll is a 6. Nobody is allowed to check.

LORE: Industry-funded studies miraculously find their own drugs vastly safer than independent studies do.

Blödsinn!

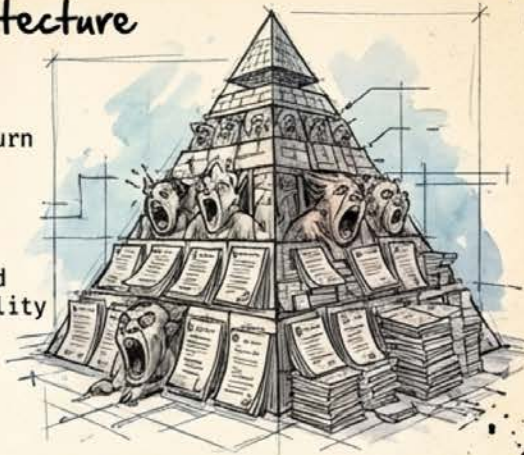

Scandal Sequence II: Pain & Profit

Building a majestic pyramid scheme out of prescription pads.

The Opioid Architecture

POWER: Drain 1 health from all players per turn to build your wealth.

LORE: 500,000 dead, billions in profit, and the foundational liability successfully dodged.

The Fifth Vital Sign

POWER: Hypnotize target player into discarding their entire hand to buy a painkiller.

LORE: A brilliant, lethal marketing campaign disguised as compassionate pain management.

The Patient Advocacy Front

POWER: Steal a sympathy token from another player while wearing a fuzzy disguise.

LORE: A grassroots patient movement entirely astroturfed by a pharmaceutical PR firm.

Settlement Without Liability

POWER: Escape game-over by paying exactly 10% of your total hoarded gold.

LORE: Pay a billion in fines, keep ten billion in profits, admit absolutely no wrongdoing.

KayfaBOGGLE!

KayfaBOGGLE!

What the FLUFF?!

Scandal Sequence III: Hearts & Minds

Selling the simplified biological story to a willing audience.

Vioxx

POWER: Deal massive damage to your opponent, but roll a D6. On a 1, your own avatar explodes.

LORE: Over 88,000 heart attacks, but the sheer mathematics of the profit outweighed the settlement cost.

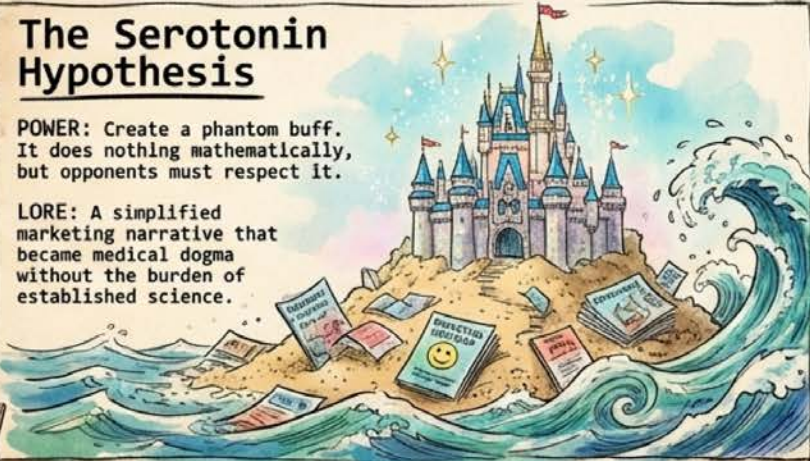

Acceptable Business Risk

The Serotonin Hypothesis

POWER: Create a phantom buff. It does nothing mathematically, but opponents must respect it.

LORE: A simplified marketing narrative that became medical dogma without the burden of established science.

The Marketing Narrative

POWER: Change the name and text of any card in play to suit your current narrative needs.

LORE: Repeating a simplified biological lie until the practitioners believe it's complex truth.

Scandal Sequence IV: The Emergency

Suspending the rules for planetary-scale deployment

The mRNA Platform

POWER: Play a card instantly, ignoring all resource costs and mandatory safety checks.
LORE: Decades of failed safety checks bypassed in a single night by an emergency slingshot.

Emergency Use Authorization

POWER: Shatter all ongoing defensive spells and regulatory shields on the board.
LORE: Smashing the red tape glass to unleash a highly profitable planetary experiment.

The 75-Year Delay

POWER: Delay the effects of an opponent's successful attack against you for 75 turns.
LORE: Releasing the clinical trial safety data only after everyone who took the product is dead.

The Suppressed Adverse Event

POWER: Ignore all damage taken this turn by aggressively pretending it didn't happen.
LORE: The institutional habit of looking the other way while the control group catches fire.

Scandal Sequence V: The Revolving Door

Who regulates the regulators? The highest bidder.

The Regulatory Gecko

POWER: Swap your faction affiliation mid-turn to avoid any regulatory penalty.
LORE: Moving between public defense and private profit with extraordinary, legal grace.

The User Fee Mechanism (PDUFA)

POWER: Insert a coin to automatically force a Yes from the Game Master.
LORE: The regulator's operational budget depends entirely on approving the client's products quickly.

The Advisory Committee

POWER: Vote to change a rule; your vote counts 10x if you hold the most gold.
LORE: Independent experts making crucial decisions while wearing collars paid for by the industry.

The WHO Voluntary Contribution

POWER: Pay 5 coins to privately dictate the next event card drawn from the deck.
LORE: Steering global health priorities with massive, untraceable strings of private foundation cash.

The Eliminated I: Frequencies & Diets

Efficacy without a patent is a punishable offense.

KayfaBIZARRO!

Royal Raymond Rife

POWER: Reveal the top 3 cards of the deck, but you must lose your next turn.
LORE: He saw too much through the microscope, so they burned his laboratory to the ground.

The Mysterious Fire

POWER: Destroy one unpatented item on the board permanently.
LORE: The establishment's absolute favorite tool for peer-reviewing disruptive medical inventions.

Max Gerson

POWER: Heal fully using organic resources, but become a target for all Corporate players.
LORE: Proved clinical nutrition fights cancer; got stripped of his medical license for the insult.

The Unpatentable Vegetable

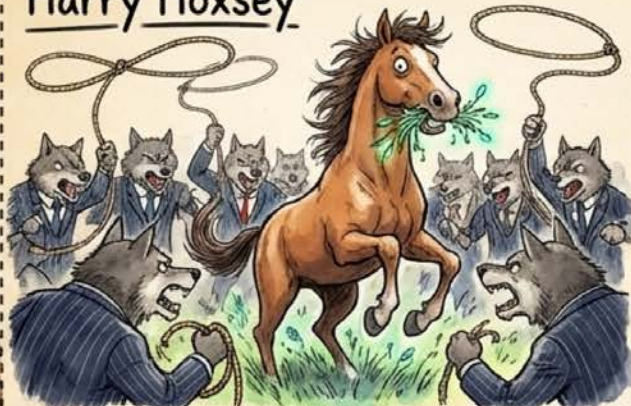

POWER: Costs 0 to play, provides immense healing, but cannot be monetized or traded.
LORE: If you can't put a corporate barcode on it, it is scientifically and legally worthless.

The Eliminated II: Botanicals & Repurposing

Forty years of safety means nothing against a new patent.

Harry Hoxsey

POWER:
Evade capture for 3 turns while passively healing your allies.

LORE:
A pasture weed formula that triggered over one hundred federal lawsuits to suppress.

The Tijuana Relocation

POWER:
Move one banned item across the board secretly without triggering traps.

LORE:
Smuggling botanical efficacy past the heavily armed borders of medical orthodoxy.

Ivermectin

POWER:
Cleanse all debuffs. Opponents are mechanically required to mock you for using it.

LORE:
A Nobel-winning, hyper-safe drug memory-holed to protect lucrative Emergency Authorizations.

The Pandemic Elimination

POWER:
Delete a low-cost card from the game permanently, to force the use of a high-cost card.

LORE:
Erasing a cheap, off-patent pill from reality to sell a shiny, billion-dollar new box.

BLÖDSINN!

GW

Georg v. Westphalen

The Fauna I: The Messengers

Curating the medical truth, one sponsored seminar at a time.

The Key Opinion Leader Parrot

SAFE AND EFFECTIVE!

POWER: Repeat your last action for free, provided it directly benefits a Corporate player.

LORE: Selected for pre-existing biases, funded handsomely to squawk the preferred narrative.

The CME Starling Flock

POWER: Force all players to move their pieces in the exact same direction this turn.

LORE: Continuing Medical Education operating as a synchronized, industry-funded marketing swarm.

Disease Awareness Cuckoo

POWER: Replace an opponent's organic resource with a Disease token they must pay to cure.

LORE: Astroturfing public demand by replacing normal human conditions with branded, treatable diseases.

The Footnote Reader

POWER: Spend 1 full turn reading the fine print to cancel an opponent's hidden trap.

LORE: The sole exhausted creature reading the microscopic conflict-of-interest disclosures.

The Fauna II: The Operators

Rigging the maze so every path leads to efficacy

Clinical Trial Design Architect

POWER: Rig the dice. Your next roll is mathematically guaranteed to succeed.

LORE: Comparing the new drug to a placebo instead of the existing cure to guarantee a win.

The Alternative Practitioner

POWER: Provide alternative healing to an ally, but roll a D6: on a 1, lose your medical license.

LORE: Healing patients while continuously dodging laser-guided regulatory missiles.

DODGE!

The Licensing Board

POWER: Strip an opponent of their ability to use any item cards for 2 full turns.

LORE: Vultures on a high bench dispensing dissolution, threats, and corporate protectionism.

The Migratory Bureaucrat Swarm

POWER: Relocate your units instantly to any corporate or regulatory zone on the board.

LORE: Locusts in suits migrating seamlessly between public regulation and private industry.

Stay fluffy!

The Clinical Encounter

The prescription was ready before the examination began.

The 4-Hour Waiting Room

POWER: Force an opponent to completely skip their turn due to administrative delay.
LORE: A purgatorial cobweb chamber specifically designed to break your spirit and lower your standards.

The 14-Minute Doctor

POWER: Play a card blindly from your hand without reading it to save time.
LORE: A blur of motion scribbling scripts without making eye contact with the human being.

The Recalled Medication Ad

POWER: Deal heavy damage to a foe, but take equal damage next turn as side effects hit.
LORE: Glossy billboards for miracle pills that are quietly pulled from the market two years later.

The Side-Effect Scroll

POWER: Attach to a buffed unit. It takes 1 damage per turn for every buff it currently has.
LORE: The list of adverse events is mathematically longer than the description of the benefit.

The System's Arsenal

The mechanics of monopoly, clearly illustrated.

The Fine vs. The Profit

POWER: Break any rule, pay 1 coin in fines, and keep 100 coins in profit.
LORE: A single peanut on the scales of justice weighed against the GDP of a small nation.

Efficacy vs. Management

POWER: Convert a one-time healing bonus into a permanent, smaller, recurring income stream.
LORE: Cure is a dead end. Management is a smoothly paved, endless toll road.

The Legitimate Certification

POWER: Make one of your cards entirely immune to all regulatory attacks or audits.
LORE: A golden stamp of approval operated by a crank turned by a bloated plutocrat.

The Suppressed Alternative

POWER: Bury an opponent's most powerful card at the absolute bottom of the deck.
LORE: Concrete poured over glowing crystals. Nothing to see here, move along.

FrizzleBob's Exit Strategy

The Unfilled Prescription

POWER: Reject a mandatory corporate directive and regain 2 health points.
LORE: Tossing the corporate script into a warm, crackling analog campfire of defiance.

The system is running on time. I am leaving.

The Independent Meta-Analysis

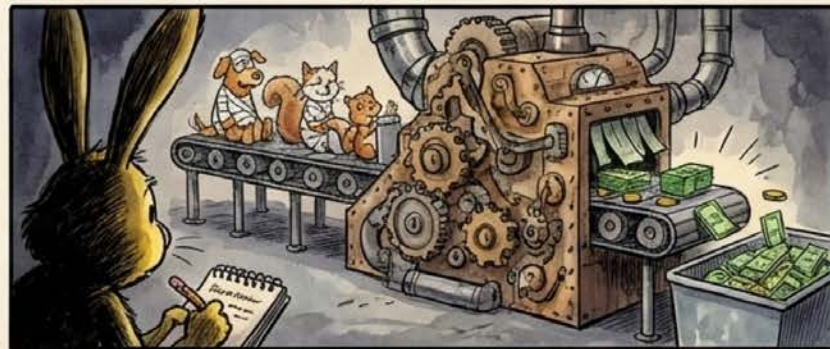

POWER: Reveal all hidden cards on the board and immediately negate their traps.
LORE: Liberating the locked clinical data from the basement mainframe to find the actual truth.

The Analog Saboteur Sketchbook

POWER: Create a permanent safe zone where corporate powers have absolutely no effect.
LORE: A glowing zine radiating anti-establishment energy, repelling the corporate bats.

The System is Running on Time

POWER: The game ends. The player with the most Corporate shares wins, everyone else loses.
LORE: A perfectly oiled machine chewing up sick animals and spitting out money.
